Why PSDM...

This workshop is designed as a two day event and when Aspire used it for a client it was specially structured for the banking sector. Then and now the training design and its details try to create a link betwixt leadership, teams & decision making.

The training has been studied with case studies built by the Aspire team on actual anecdotes. The potential of this training design goes much beyond the banking sector and after discussions with the client is usable in other industries also.

Special Features

The training has three core interlinked areas:

- It builds on the principles of good to great supervision and leadership. The theoretical concepts are well researched and taken from top business schools however the examples used are local and current.
- Since teams are the modern day hype an effort has been made to focus on leadership within teams. Numerous videos and cases have been used. A case in point are customized videos from the epic movie "Rebound".
- Leadership and teams are connected with decision making in the third segment with a tested and tried "Problem Solving & Decision Making Model" (PSDM). Various PSDM templates are a part of the training and have been used to create in training exercises.

About Us...

We are not starting in 2016 in fact we started in 2001 when Chaudry Fazle Muqeem returned from Warwick, Mobashar Sadik was already a part of the most popular Business School in Islamabad & Noor Ahmed was breaking into an international career after graduating from a top Business School. All three of these gentlemen now form the core of what is "Aspire Consulting"- A training, organizational development & an academic institutions' capacity building company.

Our Vision is "To Do More With Less", Our Mission is to "Up-Skill Pakistan" & our Mantra is "Professionalism is ultimately a self-serving concept and money is but a by-product of it"

Note: The training design will be customized after deliberations with the client
